CHAPTER XVII.

I MUST admit that it was not entirely owing to disinterested motives that I now took the secret stand I did in Miss Tuttle's favor. I clung to my convictions with an almost insensate persistence, inwardly declaring her the victim of circumstances and hoping against hope that some clew would offer itself by means of which I might yet prove her so.

Had Mr. Jeffrey's alibi been less complete he could not have stood up against the suspicions which now ran riot. But there was no possibility of shifting the actual crime back to him after the testimony of so frank and trustworthy a man as Tallman. If the stopping of Mrs. Jeffrey's watch fixed the moment of her death as accurately as was supposed—and I never heard the least doubt thrown out in this regard—he could not by any means of transit then known in Washington have reached Waverley avenue in time to fire that shot. That night of the cemetery were closed at sundown. Sundown took place that night at one minute past 7, and the distance into town is considerable. His alibi could not be gainsaid. So his name failed to be publicly broached in connection with the shooting, though his influence over Miss Tuttle could not be forgotten.

The American Farmer the Best in the World.

The American farmer is the greatest man in the world to-day because he is master of the soil—he is gaining in intelligence quite as rapidly as his products are increasing in magnitude. Our recent combines of capital in United States measured in money are enormous, yet such figures sink into insignificance when compared to the money, brain and brawn invested in agricultural industries. For instance, the farmers of Minnesota and Dakota have received $300,000,000 for their products in a single year. The farmer knows what Nature will bring forth for him from his experience in the past. He knows if certain seeds are planted and properly cared for that Nature will take care of the rest. In the same way you are master of your own destiny. Providing your blood is in good order, it only needs a little effort on your own part to keep healthy and strong—rid your body of the poisons that are apt to accumulate and your system is ready to ward off the attack of the germs of disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes rich red blood—by increasing the number of red blood corpuscles. There is no alcohol in this great tonic to shiver up the red blood corpuscles. As an alternative extract, made only of herbs and roots it goes about its work in nature's way. It stimulates the liver into proper action, and feeds the worn-out nerves, stomach and heart on pure blood. Used for over a third of a century it has sold more largely than any other blood medicine in the United States. More bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are sold to-day than ever before—that is a true test of its medicinal value after thirty-eight years of deserved popularity. Dr. Pierce's "Medical Adviser" sent on receipt of stamps to pay for mailing only. Send at one-cent stamps for book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

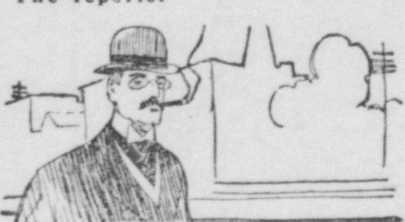

by the man for whose release from a disappointing matrimonial entanglement she was supposed to have worked, and this though the suspicion hanging over them both called for the utmost candor.

Verily a serious list, and opposed to this I had as yet little to offer but my own belief in her innocence and the fact, but little dwelt on and yet not without its value, that the money which had come to Mr. Jeffrey and the home which had been given her had both been forfeited by Mrs. Jeffrey's death.

As I mused and mused over this impromptu synopsis in my vain attempt to reach some fresh clew to a proper understanding of the inconsistencies in Miss Tuttle's conduct by means of my theory of her strong but mistaken devotion to Mr. Jeffrey, a light suddenly broke upon me from an entirely unexpected quarter. It was a faint one, but any glimmer was welcome. Remembering a remark made by Mr. Jeffrey in his examination that Mrs. Jeffrey had not been the same since crossing the fatal doorstep of the Moore house, I asked myself if we had paid enough attention to the mental condition and conduct of the bride prior to the alarm which threw a pall or horror over her marriage, and, caught by the idea, I sought for a fuller account of the events of that day than had hitherto been supplied by newspaper or witness.

Hunting up my friend the reporter, I begged him to tell me where he had obtained the facts from which he made that leading article in the Star which had so startled all Washington on the evening of the Jeffrey wedding. That they had come from some eyewitness I had no doubt, but who was the eyewitness? Himself? No. Who then? At first he declined to tell me, but after a fuller understanding of my motives he mentioned the name of a young lady who, while a frequent guest at the most fashionable functions, was not above supplying the papers with such little items of current gossip as came under her own observation.

How I managed to approach this lady and by what means I succeeded in gaining her confidence are details quite unnecessary to this narrative. Enough that I did obtain access to her and that she talked quite frankly to me and in so doing supplied me with a clew which ultimately opened up to me an entirely new field of inquiry.

We had been discussing Mr. Jeffrey and Miss Tuttle when suddenly and with no apparent motive beyond the natural love of gossip, which was her weakness, she launched out into remarks about the bride. The ceremony had been late. Did I know it? A half hour or three-quarters past the time set for it. And why? Because Miss Moore was not ready. She had chosen to carry herself in the house and had come early enough for the purpose, but she would not accept any assistance, not even that of her maid, and of course she kept every one waiting. "Oh, there was no more uneasy soul in the whole party that morning than the bride!" Let other people remark upon the high look in Cora Tuttle's face or gossip about the anxious manner of the bridegroom, she (the speaker) could tell things about the bride which would go to show that she was not all right even before that ominous death's head reared itself into view at her marriage festival. Why, the fact that she came downstairs and was married without her bridal bouquet was enough. Had there not been so much else to talk about, people would have talked about that. But the big event had so effectively swallowed up the little that only herself and possibly two other ladies she might name seemed to retain any memory of the matter.

"What ladies?" I asked. "Oh, it doesn't matter what ladies. Two of the very best sort. I know they noticed it, because I heard them talking about it. We were all standing in the upper hall and were all crowded into a passage leading to the room where the bride was dressing. It was before the alarm had gone around of what had been discovered in the library, and we were all impatient enough for the appearance of the bride, who, we had been told, intended to wear the old point in which her great-grandmother was married. I have a weakness for old point and I was determined to stand where I could see her come out, even if I lost sight of the ceremony itself. But it would have been tedious enough waiting in that close hall if the ladies behind me had not kept up a conversation, which I, of course, pretended not to hear. I remember it, every word, for it was my sole amusement for half an hour. What was it? Oh, it was about that same bouquet, which, by the way, I had the privilege of staring at all the time they chatted. For the boy who brought it had not been admitted into Miss Moore's room, and not knowing what else to do with it, was lingering before her door, with the great streamers falling from his hands, and the lilies making the whole place heavy with a sickening perfume. From what I heard the ladies say, he had been standing there an hour, and the third, knock he gave from time to time proved in me an odd feeling which those ladies behind me seemed to share.

REMEMBERING A VISITOR.

"I don't see why you didn't want me to say anything about Miss Mixley's age, mamma," said Tommy, looking at the guest. "She doesn't look nearly so old as grandpa—ouch! Who's that a-plinchin' me on the haig?"

AIM FOR LIBERTY

Russia Awakening to the Modern Idea of the Individual's Part.

A BLOW AT AUTOCRACY

Declaration of the Zemstvo in Liberate Session Little Short of Revolutionary.

A Demand Is Made For Parliamentary Representation In Affairs of the Empire.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 22.—In order to secure the proper development of the life of the state and the people, it is imperatively necessary that there be regular participation of national representatives, sitting as an especially elected body, to make laws, regulate the revenue and expenditure and control the legality of the actions of the administration. Such is the final form of the declaration of the Zemstvo representatives in favor of the election of a body, not merely to participate in legislation as at first reported, but to be entrusted with the framing of the laws of the empire.

The meeting also adopted a declaration in favor of granting general amnesty to political offenders imprisoned or exiled by administrative order.

This completed program declaring the necessity of the participation by the people in the government was signed by 102 zemstvo presidents, including thirty presidents of provincial zemstvo committees out of thirty-two who had attended the meeting. Two other provincial zemstvo committee presidents from Olonets and Perm. were unable to be present because of the remoteness of the provinces, Olonets having no railroad communication with St. Petersburg, and Perm being on the southern confines of the Ural mountains. The two who did not sign the memorial were not present when the signatures were called for. They represent the provinces of St. Petersburg and Kherson.

This document, setting forth the necessity of reform, is all the more striking and impressive because the zemstvo presidents who signed it, while elected by zemstvo organizations, are confirmed by the government. The signatories also included five marshals of the nobility, the elections to which offices are also confirmed by the government.

The memorial will be presented within a couple of days to the minister of interior, Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, by a delegation composed of Presidents Shipoff, Petrunkivitch, Prince Tsvetkov, Count Heider and Rodziansky, the most prominent participants in the meeting. The zemstvo meeting will now proceed with the discussion of the remainder of the program, which, although it directly concerns zemstvo work, is of minor importance. It consists, first, of primary education; second, of the disorganization attendant on mobilization, a paper on which subject will be read by M. Stakhovitch, marshal of the nobility of Orel; third, relief measures for the families of those sent to war, and fourth, Red Cross work.

Echo of Recent Storm.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—The British steamer Aros Castle, Captain Day, fifty-seven days out from Java with a cargo of sugar, has arrived at this port and reports the probable foundation on Nov. 15 of the Spanish bark Tafalla with her crew of fifteen men, during the recent Southern storm. The steamer stood by the sinking ship for two days, and on the second night the Spanish vessel disappeared. The condition of the Tafalla when the crew of the Aros Castle last saw the vessel was such as to lead them to believe that the bark went down during the night.

He Doesn't Know Why.

New York, Nov. 22.—A. F. Jaurett, the American newspaper man who was ordered to leave Venezuela by President Castro because he had expressed views in opposition to the government policies, arrived here last night on the steamer Philadelphia. Mr. Jaurett says he does not know the reason for his dismissal from the country on twenty-four hours' notice. He says that he will consult his principals here and expects to return to Curacao if not permitted to go back to Caracas.

Down on the Aliens.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 22.—As a result of a series of criminal acts which culminated last week in the assault and serious injury of Mrs. Schwann, the wife of a smelter employe, and her two small children, a mass-meeting will be held in the smelter town of Murray tonight. At this meeting it is proposed to take steps to rid the community if possible of all Greek and Austrian laborers, of whom several hundred are employed at the smelters.

Going After Cockrell's Seat.

Kansas City, Nov. 22.—Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis, former Republican national committeeman for Missouri, declares that he is in the race for United States senator to succeed Francis M. Cockrell, to stay.

AN ACTIVE PARTY

Indiana Republican Headquarters Permanently Established.

Indianapolis, Nov. 22.—An error was made in the statement that Nat U. Hill, treasurer, had run ahead of all other candidates on the Republican state ticket. That honor is held by Judge J. V. Hadley of the supreme court, who was re-elected by a plurality of 89,064. Fassett A. Cotton, state superintendent of public instruction, was next highest with a plurality of 87,523. Mr. Hill was third and Hugh Th. Miller, lieutenant governor, fourth. Apropos of the great plurality it may be stated that the Republican leaders have not been lulled into security by it. They are keeping their state committee headquarters open and are not permitting the organization to dissolve. At the same time they are keeping before the masses the principles and accomplishments of the party and the necessity of conservative action and vigilance. There is nothing strenuous in the way the headquarters are being conducted, but there is to be no let-up by the organization.

As intimated yesterday in this column, the senatorial race promises to be minus the presence of some of the leading figures by the first of middle of next week. Congressman Hemenway announces that he will have to leave for Washington about the first of December. He is chairman of the committee on appropriations and a member of a number of important subcommittees whose work demands a lot of attention. Congressman C. B. Landis, whose headquarters here are now open, and Congressman E. D. Crumpacker will also return to Washington, but it is probable it will not be so difficult for them to get away as for Mr. Hemenway. However, it may be stated for the benefit of those who are deeply interested in one or the other of these candidates that they are making hay while the sun shines and that between now and the first of next month they will have seen many of the members and will be in such close touch with the situation that they will know how to conduct their race from Washington almost as well as if they were on the ground here.

The legislative visitation committee consisting of Senator Fremont Goodwin, chairman, Sidney Cantwell and William Honan, left here this forenoon for Lafayette, where the day was spent in inspecting Purdue university. The committee will probably not finish up at Purdue before tomorrow some time and will then adjourn till after Thanksgiving. Governor-elect Hanly expects to join them Friday or Saturday. The committee spent yesterday in going over the reports of the superintendents of the various institutions, so they are fairly well informed to start with. Cantwell will have an opportunity during this trip to get in touch with the members of the legislature in the interest of his candidacy for the speakership. He is, as yet, the only candidate, and it begins to look as if he is not to have opposition. He said today that he believes he will win. Cantwell is regarded as a strong man for the position, and it is a good sign in his favor that the party leaders do not seem to be opposing him.

While no plans have been made, it is probable that the Republicans will hold their annual low-feast here some time during the holidays. This is one of the interesting events of the mid-winter political game. It will be the occasion this time for celebrating the recent great victory. It is very likely that the Democratic members of the legislature and party leaders will have a caucus about the same time for the purpose of renewing faith and preparing for the session in which they will not have much voice, but in which a party policy will be maintained.

Attorney General Charles W. Miller has a busy senatorial bee. He wants to enter the race to succeed Senator Fairbanks and may before the week is ended. He said today that he is not a candidate. As to whether or not he will be, that is a horse of another color, for he refused to answer the question. Mr. Miller would be no mean opponent. He would have the Thirteenth district to start with, which would place him on nearly even terms with the field.

To Relieve Chicago's Streets.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—The Chicago Subway company with a capital stock of $50,000,000 and composed of men who represent 99 per cent of the railroads having Chicago terminals, has taken over the $30,000,000 company here which has built fifteen miles of freight tunnels under the city streets. The vast tonnage of the railroads represented by the financiers in the new corporation will be diverted into the company's tunnels, which are already under every street in the business district of Chicago. The deal guarantees the immediate use of the tunnels by the railroad interests concerned and promises speedy relief for Chicago from the present congestion in terminal roads and in the downtown district.

He Declared His Innocence.

Columbus, Ind., Nov. 22.—William Fallis, who was arrested in Herodsbury, Ky., and brought here on the charge of robbing Charles Spotsmeier of more than $2,200, hanged himself in the county jail. He declared his innocence to the end, and left a letter to his father and mother, telling them he was innocent. He said he had borne all his could.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ORGANIZED LABOR

Will Lend Its Assistance to Plan For Employment of Convicts.

TO MAKE SCHOOL BOOKS

Superintendent Whittaker of the Reformatory Has Formulated a Scheme In This Direction.

The Legislature Will Be Asked to Give the Matter Earnest Consideration.

Indianapolis, Nov. 22.—Organized labor of the state will support Superintendent W. H. Whittaker of the Jeffersonville reformatory in his efforts to secure legislation providing for the employment of the inmates of the reformatory. This resolution is the result of a visit by the prison labor committee of the State Federation of Labor to the reformatory, during which it investigated present conditions.

By Mr. Whittaker's plan the inmates of the reformatory shall, after the present contracts expire in June, 1906, devote their time to the making of school books and a technical school shall be established to teach the inmates various trades. The members of the prison labor committee believe that under the present system of contract labor inmates of the reformatory learn only one part of a trade and learn it in such an incomplete manner that they are fit only for use in nonunion shops and for the lowest wages, after they have been released from the reformatory. It is argued that no union labor in this state will be interfered with if school books are made at the reformatory, and that if the books are made in such manner they may be sold at a very low price, or may be given to pupils in the schools if suitable appropriation be made by the legislature. The legislative committee of the State Federation of Labor will lend its assistance to secure the passage of an appropriate bill along the lines laid down by Superintendent Whittaker.

THE STARBUCK CASE

Trial of Haley Gipe Begins Today at New Castle.

New Castle, Ind., Nov. 22.—What promises to be a hotly-contested legal battle began today when the trial of Haley Gipe, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mollie Starbuck and three-months-old daughter was called in the Henry county circuit court before Judge John M. Morris. For weeks preparations have been making for the trial and the forces on both sides have their evidence lined up.

Didn't Heed Signals.

Indianapolis, Nov. 22.—Warren E. Sauers, the telegraph operator employed by the Vandalla railroad at Ben Davis, nine miles west of the city, was struck and killed by a fast train. Sauers had just been relieved from duty and started down the track toward his boarding-house, apparently in deep study. He did not heed the warning whistles of the engineer and the train knocked him a great distance. His skull was fractured. Sauers was twenty-three years old. His home was in Goshen, Ind.

Y. M. C. A. Officers.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 22.—The thirty-fifth annual state convention of the Young Men's Christian association has closed after a four days' meeting. Brown, Brightwood; secretary, John C. Haswell, Marion; first assistant secretary, H. C. Cartwright, Elkhart; press secretary, Harry Lawrence, Hanover.

Indianapolis, Nov. 22.—Ed Thompson, a negro, is dead as the result of a shooting array in a mossy caprice saloon dive at 423 West Ohio street. Thomas Downing, also colored, was shot in the hand. He was locked up and a charge of murder is now against him.

WEEKLY

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1904

The football season is about over and the players can safely have their locks shorn. The college players can then buckle down to class room work.

THERE are a number of pretty window displays in the Seymour stores. They show the enterprise and the up-to-date methods of our own merchants.

EVERY day farmers living on some of the new mail routes come into town to get rural mail boxes. They are appreciating the service and are preparing to enjoy it.

THAT Bedford policeman has been away from home again and repeats what he has said in interviews before—that the murderer of Miss Sarah Schafer was just about to be arrested. It is about time for him to do something or else quit talking.

THE total vote of the state has been tabulated by the secretary of state and shows that Judge O. H. Montgomery, of this city, received a total of 360,349 votes. His plurality over Judge Downey is 87,063. His total vote was greater than that received by the candidate for governor, the other republican candidate for supreme judge, the candidate for state auditor, and one or two others on the state ticket. This is evidence of his personal popularity over the state.

MORE or less is being said in the newspapers of Indiana about legislation needed to put a stop to the use of so much money on election day. Men prominent in the different parties agree that something should be done to decrease the number of floaters. The number of men who want something on election day seems to increase with each election. This ought not to be the case. The number should be reduced right speedily and if legislation can be had that will do this we are in favor of it. The floater and the methods that make floaters should be gotten rid of.

Indorse Heminway.

Special to the REPUBLICAN.

VINCENNES, Ind., Nov. 22.—At meeting of the Republican members of the legislature from the Second Congressional district held here today, resolutions were adopted indorsing Congressman James A. Heminway for the United States senator to succeed Senator F. R. Banks, who has been elected vice-president.

A resolution was also adopted pledging Heminway the support of the six representatives from the district.

The First district representatives pledged their support to Heminway last week. Heminway lives at Boonville and has represented the First district in congress for ten years and has just been reelected for another term.

One Instantly Killed.

During the dense fog this morning a B. & O. S. W. work train collided with a hand car, carrying section men at work, four miles west of Vincennes. Homer Cox, a section hand, was instantly killed, and John Thomas had an arm broken. Five other men saved their lives by jumping.

Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lockmund entertained a company of relatives and friends, numbering about 25, at their home on East Fifth street last evening. Among the guests were Clara Williams, of Oklahoma. The evening was spent very pleasantly by all. Refreshments were served.

Jubilee Singers.

Tomorrow night the Slayton jubilee singers will appear at the Central Christian church. This will be the first number of this season's lecture course and should draw a good crowd. Patronize the course and you will get the benefit.

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. James Gasaway on Laurel street Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

WASKOM.

Daniel Empson hauled some fine hogs to Crothersville Wednesday.

Miss Rosa Fogeloid visited at Brownstown Thursday.

Edie Sherman and Mrs. Cox, of Tampico, were visitors here Friday.

A. J. Duncan and family visited in Washington county Saturday and Sunday.

John Riggles is shucking corn for Daniel Empson.

Several from here attended the party at Mrs. Phoebe Shutter's Saturday night.

J. W. Duncan is painting his house. Michael Waskom and wife attended church at Tampico Sunday.

John Pollett will start out with his shredder soon.

Trial Will Not Be Delayed.

New York, Nov. 22.—The trial of Nan Patterson for the murder of Bookmaker Caesar Young, has been fairly begun before Justice Davis, in the supreme court. The stories that there would be further delays in the trial were early disposed of by the announcement from the court that Foreman Hendricks of the jury, who had asked to be relieved, would not be excused. In Mr. Rand's opening he said the state's witnesses would prove that Nan Patterson killed Young and that the killing was planned several hours before the morning on which Young met his death.

Trouble Brewing Again.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Trouble is brewing again at the stockyards between the butchers and the employers. The fifty-four butchers employed by the Hammond Packing company have ceased work because of alleged discrimination against union workmen by the employers.

Pat Crowe in Mexico.

Mexico City, Nov. 22.—Pat Crowe, for whose capture Cudahy, the millionaire packer is reported to have offered a reward of $25,000 as the kidnapper of his little son, is thought to be in this city and the police are endeavoring to locate him.

Notable Term of Service.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22.—After fifty-six years' service as secretary-treasurer of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railroad, James B. Winston has resigned the double office, and F. J. Duke was appointed to succeed him.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Caring For Manure.

The ideal way of caring for manure is to keep it under a covered shed and over a cement floor, so that no extra water can leach through it. The loss by leaching will run all the way from 15 to 60 per cent of fertilizing value, depending upon the ease with which the water washes through the pile. There is more or less drainage through any soil, though the hard clays will hold most of the liquid. A floor of concrete under the manure will pay for itself. We should put some roof over the manure in order to regulate the supply of moisture. Where cow and horse manures are mixed you are not likely to be troubled with heating or firefanging, as you would be if the horse manure were kept alone. It is sometimes necessary to put water on the pile to prevent this heating.—Rural New Yorker.

Feeding Stock Turkeys.

Few growers separate their stock or breeding turkeys from those intended for market. Entirely too many growers feed them all together, sell the most thrifty for market and keep the least matured for producing stock. This is a great mistake. The very best should be selected for producing stock and the rest fed for market. Those selected for use in breeding, however, should be separated and fed by themselves if possible. The best food for stock turkeys are boiled oats drained of all moisture, some wheat and a little corn. This will keep them in good healthy condition and quite full enough of flesh. It is a mistake to keep as producers fowls poor or thin in flesh. They must be in good condition, plump, but not overfat.—Feathers.

Dairy Utensils.

In buying dairy utensils it is a good plan to get those with as few seams and rough surfaces as possible. They are much easier to keep clean.

Christmas Gifts Made At Home

Catch Alls as Presents For the Housekeeper

FOR the woman who never has a place for anything or anything in its place a catch all for holding different stray articles of apparel is an ideal present at Christmas time.

This useful device may be put up in such a dainty and attractive form that the ornamental value will appeal to the recipient as well as the usefulness of the gift.

A collar and cuff bag is the first on the list of time and temper saving receptacles. This useful little bag is made of half a yard of art ticking. In each corner of the square piece of ticking are run triangular shaped sections of cardboard. A small embroidery hoop covered with ribbon is fitted into a hole cut in the middle of the material. Bows are fastened to the four corners, which hang from the hoop. The trifle is finished when hung from a half yard ribbon loop.

For the musical member of the family a song rack in which she may keep the music immediately in use is most convenient. This song rack is quite a new wrinkle and a very simple thing to construct.

Get an expert to nip you off five pieces of rather thick gilt wire a little longer than an ordinary sheet of music for the front of the rack and two more strips of wire longer than the width of the sheet for side supports. The side pieces are fixed to the five front strips with binding wire, the joints hidden by the side pieces being wrapped with narrow satin ribbon. Cover some fine wire with ribbon and bend into the semblance of the treble clef and the F note, and fix these firmly on the front bars with thin gold wire. Oriental satin, with a deep casing top and bottom, through which are inserted wooden rollers are inserted, forms a back for the rack. The wire front is attached to the lower roller with small bows, which also ornament the top roller at each end. The song rack hangs on the wall from a wide ribbon loop and is a dainty and useful affair.

A cushion for stick and hat pins, which have a most provoking habit of losing themselves, is fashioned from a stocking leg. To make this variation of the pin cushion shape of a small leg as far as the knee out of some stout material and stuff it well with bran. After cutting the worn foot from a black silk stocking place it over the padded leg. Cross narrow yellow satin ribbon in trellis pattern up the stocking leg and finish off with a pretty bow and loop. The joint at the top where the stocking stops is hidden by a frill of orange and black spangled chiffon. The pin cushion hangs from a loop at the back.

The turnover collars we all wear lose their chic and freshness if tumbled around in any kind of fashion. A neat and inexpensive case particularly useful to carry the neck pieces in when traveling is made of heavy crash. White is the wisest choice, as this color launders best. Cut a piece of crash a foot wide and eleven inches deep. At the top make a flap the shape of a turnover collar with a dip in front. At the ends hollow out little rounded pieces, which serve to hold the collars in place. Turn up the lower part of the case to the required depth and bind all around with wide linen tape. When finished starch stiff and iron until perfectly dry.

Getting Wise to Woman's Ways

The Hardworking Domestic Partner Always Has Something New to Spring

From "Old Gorgon Graham; More Letters From a Self Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer. By permission of Doubleday, Page & Co., Publishers.

I'm still learning how to treat an old wife, and so I can't give you many pointers about a young one, for, while I've been married as long as I've been in business and while I know all the curves of the great American hog, your ma's likely to spring a new one on me tomorrow. No man really knows anything about women except a widower, and he forgets it when he gets ready to marry again. And no woman really knows anything about men except a widow, and she's got to forget it before she's willing to marry again. The one thing you can know is that as a general proposition a woman is a little better than the man for whom she cares, for when a woman's bad there's always a man at the bottom of it, and when a man's good there's always a woman at the bottom of that too.

The fact of the matter is, that while marriages may be made in heaven, a lot of them are lived in hell and end in South Dakota. But when a man has picked out a good woman he holds four hearts, and he needn't be afraid to draw cards if he's got good nerve. If he hasn't, he's got no business to be sitting in games of chance. The best woman in the world will begin trying out a man before she's been married to him twenty-four hours, and unless he can smile over the top of a four flush and raise the ante she's going to rake in the breeches and keep them.

The great thing is to begin right. Marriage is a close corporation, and unless a fellow gets the controlling interest at the start he can't pick it up later. The partner who owns 51 per cent of the stock in any business is the boss, even if the other is allowed to call himself president. There's only two jobs for a man in his own house—one's boss and the other's office boy—and a fellow naturally falls into the one for which he's fitter.

Of course when I speak of a fellow's being boss in his own home I simply mean that, in a broad way, he's going to shape the policy of the concern. When a man goes sticking his nose into the running of the house he's apt to get it twined, and while he's busy drawing it back out of danger he's going to get his leg pulled too. You let your wife tend to the housekeeping, and you focus on earning money with which she can keep house. Of course in one way it's mighty nice of a man to help around the place, but it's been my experience that the fellows who tend to all the small jobs at home never get anything else to tend to at the office. In the end it's usually cheaper to give all your attention to your business and to hire a plumber.

You don't want to get it into your head, though, that because your wife hasn't any office hours she has a soft thing. A lot of men go around sticking their chests and wondering why their wives have so much trouble with the help when they are able to handle their clerks so easily. If you really want to know, you lift two of your men out of their revolving chairs and hang one over a forty horsepower cook stove that's booming along under forced draft so that your dinner won't be late, with a turkey that's gobbling for basting in one oven and a cake that's gone back on you in a low, underhand way in another and sixteen different things boiling over on top and mixing up their smells, and you set the other at a twelve hour stint of making all the beds you've mussed and washing all the dishes you've used and cleaning all the dust you've kicked up, and you boss the whole while the baby yells with colic over your arm—you just try this with two of your men and see how long it is before there's rough house on the Wabash. Yet a lot of fellows come home after, their wives have had a day of this and blow around about how tired and overworked they are and wonder why home isn't happier. Don't you ever forget that it's a blamed thing easier to keep cool in front of an electric fan than a cook stove and that you can't subject the best temper in the world to 500 degrees F. without warming it up a bit. And don't you add to your wife's troubles by saying how much better you could do it, but stand pat and thank the Lord you've got a snap.

Getting a Square Deal

Rotten Spots on the World, but Its Core Is Sound

It's pretty hard to know how to treat a lie when it's about yourself. You can't go out of your way to deny it, because that puts you on the defensive, and sending the truth after a lie that's got a running start is like trying to round up a stampeded herd of steers while the scare is on them. Lies are great travelers and welcome visitors in a good many homes, and no questions asked. Truth travels slowly, has to prove its identity, and then a lot of people hesitate to turn out an agreeable stranger to make room for it.

About the only way I know to kill a lie is to live the truth. When your credit is doubted don't bother to deny the rumors, but discount your bills. When you are attacked unjustly avoid the appearance of being too good—that is, better than usual. A man can't be too good, but he can appear too good. Surmise and suspicion feed on the unusual, and when a man goes about his business along the usual rut they soon fade away for lack of nourishment. First and last every fellow gets a lot of unjust treatment in this world, but when he's as old as I am and comes to balance his books with life and to credit himself with the mean things which weren't true that have been said about him and to debit himself with the mean things which were true that people didn't get on to or overlooked he'll find that he's had a tolerably square deal. This world has some pretty rotten spots on its skin, but it's sound at the core.—From "Old Gorgon Graham; More Letters From a Self Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolsville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

The impression that lower rates would prevail to St. Louis before the close of the Exposition has been entirely dispelled by receipt of information by local agents that no further reduction would be made.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD.

Judge Buskirk Named Three Members Monday.

The seven members of the Seymour Public Library Board have all been named. Judge Buskirk completed the list Monday by appointing Mrs. C. H. Williams, C. S. Mercer and Dr. J. M. Shields.

These seven members will now meet and organize and take charge of the public library. The Board is composed of capable people who will render good service to the public.

The new library building has been completed and should be put into use as soon as possible. A well conducted public library soon becomes popular and is of great value to any community.

A report of the special committee which had charge of the construction of the new building and received and disbursed the $10,000 donation from Andrew Carnegie has been called for by the council and when that is made as it doubtless will be soon, the public will know just what this splendid institution has cost.

McClure's for December.

McClure's Magazine for December fairly radiates the spirit of Christmas. There is good cheer, pleasant entertainment, the beauty and joy of life shining out of its pages; That rare combination of illuminating serious article and absorbing story is effected by Ray Stannard Baker in his story of "The Rise of the Tailors." Mr. Baker discusses the whole question of the "open shop," the very crux of the labor problem. What will be a revelation of tremendous significance to most readers are the hard facts, found in an article on "The Increase of Lawlessness in the United States," by S. S. McClure.

The position of distinction held by McClure's in story as well as article is well sustained by the fiction of the number.

Only Makes a Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

A WARM SESSION

American Federation of Labor Hears Bitter Oratory.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Yesterday afternoon's session of the American Federation of Labor was the most exciting held. During the heated debate which followed the unexpected intersection of the question of Socialism before the delegates, Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell were charged with being traitors to the cause of labor. These charges and the bitter socialistic debate which followed were caused by the introduction of a resolution by Delegate Victor Berger of Milwaukee strongly tinged with socialism. The resolution committee reported to the committee that it recommended the measure excepting the objectionable clause. A Socialist delegate arose and asked why the particular section should be expurgated. This opened the floodgates of oratory and vituperation, and the battle was not over until an hour and fifteen minutes after the regular time for adjournment. By an overwhelming vote the delegates then passed the resolution as recommended by the committee and expressed their confidence in John Mitchell and Samuel Gompers. The fight between the Chicago Federation of Labor and the national organization brought about by the question of trade autonomy was partially settled by permitting Delegate William Schardt, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, to have a seat and voice in the present convention and directing President Gompers to go to Chicago within thirty days and endeavor to settle the dispute existing between the two big organizations. If this could not be effected it was the sense of the convention that the Chicago body be permanently suspended from the American Federation of Labor.

Another action of far-reaching importance was that taken on the report of a special committee on demand by the typographical union for an eight-hour day. The convention voted unanimously to endorse the demand and pledged itself to aid the movement financially by levying an assessment on each of the members if such a course should become necessary.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy test the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by C. W. Milhous.
